DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zacharias (US 6,494,367) in view of Niwata et al (US 6,070,794)(hereinafter referred to as 'Niwata').

Zacharias teaches a multi-application card system comprising a card (200) storing a user ID, a password, and a plurality of index number serving as a medium ID for identifying the recording medium or account information of corresponding account (e.g., credit card number, etc.) that is stored in the database (230) wherein the index number are selectable by user, and the card scanner/data entry device (210) for reading index number from the card, authenticating user identity prior to providing access to the record, and returning respective account information according to the requested index number (see figs. 1-6; col. 4, line 58-col. 13, line 10).

However, Zacharias fails to particularly teach that the card scanner device comprises a writing section for writing data/ID to the card.

Niwata teaches a card processing apparatus (10) comprising a terminal unit (17) for reading data stored in the IC card (20) wherein the password can be changed at the terminal (S11)(see figs. 3, 7-8; col. 10, line 55-col. 21, line 29).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the teachings of Niwata to the teachings of Zacharias in order to provide user friendly system by giving option to change index that is easier to remember to the user for accessing related account information thereafter.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Rose et al. (US 5,770,843) and Macklin et al. (US 6,732,919) teach a system for accessing multiple account using a single card.
